

weathertoski

WE KNOW SNOW

Latest snow report

Latest snow forecast

Who got the most snow
2013-14?

Who got the most snow
2013-14 - N. America

Who got the most snow
2012-13?

Who got the most snow
2012-13 - N. America

The winter of 2012-13 in pictures

The snow quality
equation

What is the Foehn?

Avoiding rain

Avalanche awareness

Archive

Snow forecast - Monday 11 March 2013

It will turn colder this week with snow showers in many places.

Detailed forecast:

Austria

Monday will see a mixture of bright spells and scattered showers (snow above 1000-1300m) mostly in the afternoon, though any snow won't amount to much and some places will stay dry. There will be very little change on Tuesday except that it will turn colder in the eastern Austrian Alps where the rain/snow limit will fall to 700m.

Wednesday will see more widespread snow (600-800m) with some significant falls in places. It will turn colder still on Thursday with further flurries to all levels.

Rather cloudy in Kitzbuhel this morning with the chance of some showers later (snow above 1200m) - Photo: www.kitz.net

France

Monday will see early snow showers (1200m) die away from the northern French Alps, but further showers (snow 1300m) will develop later in the day. Some places will stay dry and bright, however, particularly further south. Tuesday will see a similar weather pattern with a scattering of snow showers (1000-1200m) most likely early and late in the day with some brighter spells in between. It will also feel a fraction colder.

Wednesday will be colder still with further snow flurries (800m), heaviest in the southern Alps. It will be bitterly cold on Thursday with a biting north-east wind and still a few light snow flurries (to low levels) here and there.

weathertoski

weathertoski

@weathertoski

7h

Italian village breaks world 24hr snowfall record!

tinyurl.com/o4u6lmb #snow
 pic.twitter.com/JqVV9dRD5C

Expand

weathertoski

@weathertoski

9h

Colder with some snow in the far eastern Alps. Mostly fine elsewhere.

Follow us on:

Tweet this page

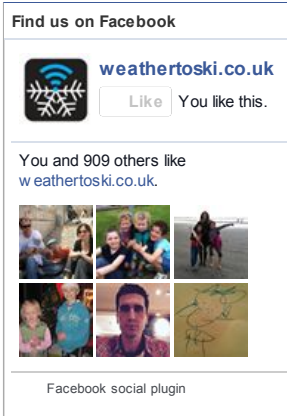

snow-wise
SKI HOLIDAY EXPERTS

Tailor-made ski holidays
and short breaks
to some of the finest hotels
in the Alps

020 3397 8450

Find us on Facebook

You and 909 others like weathertoski.co.uk.

Facebook social plugin

Recommend this page on:

Contact us...

Got a burning question about weather or snow conditions in the Alps?

Contact us and we'll do our best to answer it...

E: info@weathertoski.co.uk

T: +44 (0)20 3151 3154

A little fresh snow for the French Tarentaise. This is Champagny en Vanoise.

Italy

Monday will be mostly dry with some bright or sunny spells and just the chance of the odd snow shower (1300m) here and there. The chance of snow flurries will increase a little on Tuesday but they will remain light and many places will stay dry with bright or sunny spells.

Wednesday will see more widespread snow (800m), particularly in the eastern Italian Alps with more scattered flurries further west. It will feel bitterly cold by Thursday with further flurries to low levels in places, but also some brightness, particularly in the west.

Bright in Livigno this morning but some cloud is expected to build later - Photo: www.valtline.it

Switzerland

Monday will see a few scattered snow showers, particularly later in the day with a little snow above 1300m. Many places will, however, remain dry with bright or sunny spells.

On Tuesday and Wednesday snow showers will become more widespread and, with increasingly cold air, the rain/snow limit will drop from 1000m to all levels by the end of Wednesday.

On Thursday any snow flurries should become lighter again, but it will feel colder still in a bitter north-easterly wind.

Plenty of cloud over the Zermatt area this morning - Photo: www.zermatt.ch

Outlook:

It will turn milder by the weekend but will remain unsettled with further showers of rain or snow, particularly in the west.

Next detailed snow forecast will be on Thursday 14 March, but see Today in the Alps for daily updates